SALEM, September 4.

In the variety of remarks which have been published upon the effects of lightning, no observations have been offered on the difference of its effects in an open and in a close room; few or no instances have occurred where persons have received any injury from lightning while continuing in a room with the doors, windows and chimney closed. Every instance of death or injury to persons by lightning, has been at an open door or window, or by an open fire-place.

NEW-YORK, Sept. 13.

From European papers, brought by Capt. Folger, from Dublin, and Capt. Allen, from London, to the 21st of July, the following interesting particulars are abstracted, viz.

Carrying the Orange flag, and distributing papers in favor of that party, are instituted capital crimes by the States of Holland; who have also issued a declaration, dated the 3d instant whereby they pledge themselves to guard and maintain for ever the wives, children and heirs of all burgesses, who may be killed or wounded in defence of that Province. They have likewise issued orders, that no persons whatever shall sing songs in their streets, or do any act naming the house of Orange, on pain of being severely punished. On the 7th of July the town of Wyck was taken by a body of 1000 of the Orange party, without any resistance, and licence given to pillage and murder: There were but 100 burgesses in garrison. It is suspected, that the Stadtholder intends to invade Holland, as his army has been seen in motion; but many obstacles are raised effectually to render the success of such intention unfruitful. The States of Holland have finally agreed to request the mediation of the Court of France, and consequent orders are given to the grand pensionary. The capture of Wyck is likely to be followed by that of Harderwick and Guelderland, says a British paragraphist. Zealand hitherto has wavered between the two parties, but that island has now joined the States of Holland, which has occasioned a considerable fracas in Middleburgh, the capital of that island, by the Orange party, who declared that fire and sword should carry every thing before them: Here they murdered and pillaged many. The patriots accuse the Prince of having encouraged this practice.

PROCEEDINGS of the FEDERAL CONVENTION.

WE, the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

Sect. 1. ALL legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

Sect. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

tioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New-Hampshire shall be entitled to chuse three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New-York six, New-Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North-Carolina five, South-Carolina five, and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall chuse their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

Sect. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year, and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall chuse their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

Sect. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of chusing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

Sect. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorised to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behaviour, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

Sect. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

Sect. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

Sect. 8. The Congress shall have power

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining, the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings;—And

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or office thereof.

Sect. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

Ten Dollars Reward,

WILL be given by the Subscriber for apprehending and securing in any gaol of the United States, an indented servant lad, named JOSEPH GHELSEMINO; he is by appearance about 16 years of age, 5 feet 3 or 4 inches high, has light hair, fair complexion, grey eyes, comely and open countenance, more than commonly ingenious, having a great turn for music and any kind of mechanical work; he has been brought up as an attendant in the house, speaks remarkable good English, though born in Ireland: He had on and took with him when he went away, a short fustian coat which he usually wore, a cloth coloured coat, a blue surtout, and a white beavered hat.—He also carried off a violin and a handsome German flute tipped and mounted with ivory, with two spare middle joints.—Said lad has a scar under the right jaw near the ear, somewhat resembling the King's evil.—He absconded the 6th instant, in company with two other lads and are all supposed to be inclined to get on board some ship, for which reason any one who conceals, harbors, or is accessary to his escape may depend on being dealt with as rigorously as the law will allow, by

SUMMER's FAREWELL.

AN ODE.

"TO Summer's ſweets I bid farewell!
To thee, O warbling Philomel,
To all the lovely winged tribe,
Which in thy regions now reſide,
I bid adieu! adieu ye flow'rs,
Ye mild, ye placid, gentle ſhow'rs:
Farewell ye ſkies of azure blue,
Ye trills of birds, adieu! adieu!

To lovely meads, to cloud-clapt hills,
To murm'ring brooks, to purling rills,
To gentle ſtreams, to rural bow'rs,
To groves with their attractive pow'rs,
I bid adieu! adieu ye vales,
Ye fragrant, ſpicy, zeph'rous gales:
Farewell ye banks of verdant hue,
Ye woods, ye fields, adieu! adieu!

To ſcaly tribes, to ſpangled ſcenes,
To cool retreats, to ſylvan themes,
To lowing kine, to bleating flocks,
To mountains of romantic rocks,
I bid adieu! adieu ye plains,
Ye woodland nymphs, ye rural ſwains:
Farewell ye drops of pearly dew,
Ye pleaſing ſhades, adieu! adieu!

To ſpreading tents, to humble cots,
To pebbled ſhores, to ſhelly grots,
To ſoothing ſtrains, to dying lays,
To nature's mild and gentle rays,
I bid adieu! adieu ye lawns,
Ye tender kids, ye ſportive fawns,
Farewell ye tints which gild the view,
Ye orient beams, adieu! adieu!"

FORMERLY by advertiſement I requeſted all thoſe that were indebted to me to come and ſettle their accounts, but little regard was paid thereto.——I once more, and for the laſt time in this way, call upon every one that is indebted to me either by bond, bill, promiſſary note, open account, or otherwiſe to come and pay the ſame.—Likewiſe, all thoſe that I owe, or may think I do owe them, to bring their accounts that they may be adjuſted and paid by myſelf in my life-time—for I am determined to have my accounts ſettled (if poſſible) and ſpeedily, as I intend once more to croſs the Atlantic. By this method I mean to prevent accounts being trumped up againſt my eſtate after I am dead that probably would never have appeared had I been on the ſpot, or alive.—For in the courſe of thirty odd years that I have been in buſineſs too many accounts of this deſcription have I ſeen.—There is on hand about a thouſand pounds firſt coſt of choice GOODS, that may be had on good terms.—Alſo, TWO LOTS, one of them improved on and both have lately been fenced in.—Alſo ſome NEGROES that I will either ſell or hire.

JOHN MUIR.

Alexandria, Feb. 1, 1787.

N. B. I hereby forewarn all perſons from dealing with any of my ſervants in any manner whatever, except it be by my particular orders; as I ſhall deal with them as the law directs.

A SADDLE LOST,

ON the evening of the 23d ult. about a mile and a half beyond Four-Mile-Run.—The ſaddle has plated buttons and ſtirrup-irons, blue ſaddle-cloth, with which the pummel was alſo covered, and white binding.—As it was ſecured by a double girth and ſurcingle, it was probably taken off by ſome perſon.—Whoever returns the ſaddle to the Subſcriber, ſhall receive TWO DOLLARS reward and no queſtions aſked. JOHN KEAN.

Alexandria, Sept. 13, 1787.

TWENTY DOLLARS REWARD.

PHILIP BLAKE, 26 years of age, 5 feet 8½ inches high, well made, good face, large blue eyes, and thick buſhy fair hair tied behind; he is a writer or ſchoolmaſter by occupation: He had on when he went away, a long blue coat with yellow buttons, buff coloured caſſimer under jacket, double breaſted with yellow buttons, oſnaburg ſhirt and trouſers, and country made ſhoes nailed in the heels, and holes punched in the vamps.——HUGH TAYLOR, 23 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches high, handſome face, ſmiling countenance, fair hair, and is a ſtone-cutter by trade: He had on when he went away, an oſnaburg ſhirt and trouſers, hat and ſhoes, and no other clothes, but probably may have ſtolen ſome, as he is a great villian, this being the fifth time he has ran away from the Company, and has been lately whipped.——Whoever takes up the ſaid ſervants and ſecures them ſo that they are got again, ſhall have if taken five miles from home, FIVE DOLLARS for each, and if taken at a greater diſtance the above reward, or TEN DOLLARS for each, and reaſonable charges if brought home.
